FOREWORD

The past year has increased the interest in daylilies, and better colors and finer forms are shown in the newer varieties. The heavy rains in June and early July produced the largest and finest flowers I have known. They thrive on good soil, heat and water. Cool weather and dryness makes the flowers smaller and poorer in color.

Give them plenty of room, at least 2 feet, and do not judge a variety until it has established itself, which takes a couple of years. We ship only freshly dug plants, no cold storage ones sold at bargain prices. The fact that many persons reorder each year shows their confidence in our plants.

KEY TO SYMBOLS: E—early; EM—early midseason; M—midseason; LM—late midseason; L—late. EXT means extended bloomers, lasting until 10:30 p.m. RE means reblooming in fall. Varieties showing green foliage in winter are marked EV. Numbers following the name as "EVADNE (51)—48" indicates year of introduction in parenthesis and the height of the plant in flower, in inches.

Our blooming season begins in mid-May. Mid-season varieties have larger flowers and their season is from the middle of June until the second week in August. Late ones bloom from August until early October. The time of bloom given is for this locality.

CULTURE: The plants bloom best in a sunny location, but will take shade for half a day. They need moisture before and during the blooming period to produce larger and finer blooms. Allow two feet between plants in normal growth. Reset and divide in early spring or after their blooming period in August until late September. In planting; place the crown a little below the surface, and spread out the roots. Old or dried manure and compost with some bonemeal added to induce a good root growth and large flowers. Avoid chemical fertilizers or those high in nitrogen, as the color of the flowers are then often not normal.

FRAGRANCE: All evening bloomers and the lighter yellow (OO-5) are fragrant. Also nearly all in the yellow and orange shades. Pink, red and bicolor varieties do not seem to have it, or only in a limited amount.

COLOR LISTING: Varieties are placed in color groups. Few people have color charts, and do not know the depth of the color from descriptions. Yellow comes in many shades, some greenish as barium and citron yellow, or lemon in color. Then there are the pure yellows and some are gold or orange in coloring. As the old Betscher hybrids are well known, and have a wide range in the yellow and orange shades, they were used as a basis for depth of color and begin with "L". Flowers lighter in colors are marked "O" or "OO" for a paler shade. Other varieties having the same color number may be entirely different in form, size of flower, or height. The numbers are used only to help you select different shades in the yellow color range. Pink, red shades and color patterns are marked L, M or D before the name, indicating whether they are LIGHT, MEDIUM or DARK in general coloring. Advise if this method is helpful to you.

TRANSPORTATION: STRONG SINGLE DIVISIONS are sent postpaid. Local orders can be dug anytime, if the weather allows, but those for shipping are sent in early spring until mid-May, and after the blooming season until October. Those listed for fall delivery are sent after the middle of August. No orders are accepted under $3.00. Add 20c extra for special handling. Ohio purchasers please add sales tax.

SEEDLINGS: Each year new varieties are developed, showing improvements in form and color. Of these, only a few are set aside for further testing. Do you want a thrill? Then try some, all will bloom this year. You will receive colors that are not possible in named varieties at the same price. Only sent after blooming season.

FINE MIXTURE: Includes all colors in balanced mixture. 8 for $2.50 postpaid; 20 for $5.00; 50 for $10.00, express collect.

ARISTOCRAT SERIES: An extra fine selection, labeled as to color. Six different for $3.00; or twelve different for $5.00, postpaid.

LOCATION: We are located on the CCC Highway (State Route No. 3) about three squares beyond Kenwood Road if coming from Montgomery. You are cordially invited to visit the garden at any time.

INTRODUCTION

Daylilies are steadily improving in form and color. The following introductions have been carefully selected as being distinct in form and color to known existing named varieties. Two descriptions are used. Ridgeway's chart is nearest to the hem colors, and has been used for exact coloring. The second one is the general color most people would see in the flower. All pale yellows are distinct in form and growth, and are most in demand. A few registered varieties will not be introduced until 1958, due to scarcity of plants available. Several lower growing hems are listed this year.

Kenwood Iris Gardens

Many have wondered why the name Kenwood Iris Gardens is used although daylilies are now the main feature. Iris was our first love. In 1915 we grew a number of then well-known varieties, and a few years later issued a small list of them. In 1923-24 importations of Iris from prominent breeders in England and France were received, but later domestic hybridizers surpassed them. In the fall of 1927, we moved to our present location, in a suburb N. E. of Cincinnati, later named Kenwood. As Iris was then the favored perennial, the name Kenwood Iris Gardens was adopted and retained.

An article written by Dr. Stout, Director of the New York Botanical Garden for the Ladies Home Journal in 1928, on the new and promising perennial—hemerocallis aroused an interest in this flower. He was an early prominent breeder of daylilies. The article was illustrated with colored pictures of then well-known varieties, many of which have since become obsolete. The late Chas. Betscher, of Dover, Ohio, had been breeding varieties suitable for our location, for a number of years.

After two visits to his place, the best of his introductions, about 22, were embodied in the first hem list issued by us in 1932, together with other current varieties.

In 1936-37, our first crossings of daylilies were made, and in 1942 some were named and introduced. The fascination of creating new and better daylilies increases over the years, even though requiring at least 5 years here before evaluations are possible.

With the founding of the Hemerocallis Society in 1946, great forward strides have been made. Many fine varieties with evergreen foliage were developed by Southern growers. These were used to produce larger and finer flowers suitable for colder climates, by Northern hybridizers. A number of our introductions have received favorable comment by qualified judges. A number of promising seedlings are under observation, with the expectation of introducing some later in the hope of further improvements.
